Maura's £10K surgery makeover

Fans are shocked to see Islander's transformation

Strutting into the villa and exclaiming that boxer Tommy Fury was giving her “fanny flutters” was just one of the many ways newbie Maura Higgins managed to cause quite the stir on Love Island last week. If we ignore Tommy's cheese on bread starter (see right for the recipe, you're welcome), that first date was as electric as they come.

The 28-year-old Irish model and ring girl was taking no prisoners – and it seems this isn't out of character. Her old boss recently said, “If you knew Maura, you wouldn't be shocked. Everyone in Longford knows how direct Maura is – when she wants something, there is no beating around the bush.”

And while the dust was still settling from her arrival, fans were surprised to see how drastically the glamour girl has changed over the years. Pictures from 2012 seem to show Maura has gone through a huge transformation. Her lips are plumper, her face shape appears different, and fans also believe she may have had a boob job.

Dr Benji Dhillon, medical director of Define Clinic tells heat, “Maura has more than likely had dermal fillers to enhance her lips, evident in the slight increase in volume. There also appears to be a difference in the cheekbones and which could be down to Botox.” He estimates she may have spent up to £10k on her appearance over the years. And that might not be all Maura's trying to hide from her past, as it was revealed last week she may be engaged. On her Depop page – an app where she sells her used clothes – Maura

'She may have had fillers in her jaw, too'
